LEARNING TO SAY THANK YOU

My son and daughter-in-law were on a mission to teach my granddaughter some good manners and social graces. The list included, "Please, thank, excuse me, and may I leave the table please." We applauded their parenting and Zara's attempts at remembering with smiles and applause.

The exercise reminded me that I don't always remember to do that myself and was a great refresher course for Dave and I. It is really easy to take people for granted.

This week I had the privilege of preaching at one of our Spanish Churches about an hour from my home. When I was about to leave when the pastor's wife blessed me with some homemade rolls, cheese and fruit for home and my journey. The thoughtful act of kindness and gesture was one of my 'takeaways' for the day. How was your day? What are you thankful for? Have you told your children?

PS I read a great article on teaching little kids to say thank you
